This mid-century modern Danish armchair, crafted circa 1960s in the style of Finn Juhl, exemplifies the organic elegance and sculptural refinement synonymous with his designs. The teak frame is finished in a warm natural golden tone, featuring graceful curved arms and slender tapered legs that highlight its timeless Danish craftsmanship. Brass accents and brass-capped sabots add a sophisticated metallic touch, elevating the chair's refined silhouette. Upholstered in a luxurious cream boucle, it offers inviting texture and comfort. Vintage yet exceptionally well preserved, this piece stands as a beautifully maintained example of iconic Scandinavian design.
